ABOUT ME

From a very young age, I felt I was born to tell stories.

I chose a path of free and diverse training, learning from different teachers to enrich myself with multiple perspectives. But it was life itself, with all its light and shadow, that gave me the soul to act.

It hasn’t been (and isn’t) easy, but I’m grateful for every challenging moment that has shaped me into the person I am today. For me, acting is not just a profession — it’s my way of healing, of giving love, and of offering the world a little piece of light.

My mission: to inspire, move, and reflect what is often felt but not said. To bring to life moments that feel real, intense, and unique. Always in search of brave stories and projects that take my passion to new heights.
